Reflection

Ahmad Nabi Nayeel

Assistant Professor, MBA

An investment in knowledge pays the best interest. Kardan University has developed an attractive and academic environment that triggers creativity, professionalism, and teamwork. It offers ample opportunities for career development.

From the day I joined the University as an Assistant Professor, I felt highly motivated and inspired by its collaborative, friendly, and engaged environment where resources and guidance are available for research and development.

Kardan University is exceptional because since creativity, confidence, and character are essential in an educated person, I am proud to iterate that Kardan focuses on developing these attributes in its students and grants the freedom required for serving as a teacher.

It is really an appreciable moment and pleasure to be part of such a professional team helping the new generation accomplish their career goals and become ready for serving their country.

I joined Kardan during the country's ongoing political crisis, which has significantly affected Afghanistan's entire higher education sector. However, I see the management of Kardan striving tirelessly to maintain its high-quality service in the same way as prior to the transition. I am happy and proud to be part of an organization that inspires youth and the Afghan nation overall.
